

David G. Williams

Following graduation, I attended BYU, majoring in music, for one year. I then took off for two years to serve a mission in New York and New Jersey. I returned to BYU studying music for two more years, then changed my major to Animal Science. I completed one year of graduate school before deciding it was not for me and I needed to get to work.

In 1969 I went to work in the computer industry, working for Sperry Univac in Blue Bell, Pennsylvania in the software development division. I worked in the quality assurance and testing group. I later transferred to Salt Lake City where I lead a software development team and then worked in hardware Q and A. In 1981 we moved to the Seattle area, where I specialized in computer networks, first with mainframe computers and then with personal computers. While in Seattle I have seen much of the western US, trouble shooting or managing network installations in California, Arizona, New Mexico, Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Nevada and Montana. The company changed names several times over the 30 some years I was there. In 2001 Unisys downsized me out.

Music has also been a major part of my life, singing with the Utah Symphony in Utah and with the Bellevue Chamber Chorus in Washington. I have had the privilege of singing in Carnegie Hall, at venues in Salzburg, Prague, Venice, Florence, Marcelle and various locations in Washington and British Columbia during my 36 years with BCC.

I was happily married for 25 years and have been single since 1990. I have 5 wonderful children and 17 grandchildren and 1 great granddaughter. They are the light of my life.

Since leaving Unisys, I have had numerous projects to occupy my time and supplement my retirement. I have been involved in family history research and have written several small books recording family history including my dad's experiences during WWII.

I am looking forward to this reunion and seeing all our classmates.
